

Divine Truth Document

Frequently Asked Questions

Person Answering	Jesus
Location Written	Wilkesdale, Queensland, Australia
Date/Time	25th August 2011, 7pm
Title	Many people claim to be Jesus. How can I believe that AJ Miller is Jesus?

Question

To AJ Miller

I was told that you are Jesus. But there are a lot of men claiming to be Jesus and or God. One of the men that I know of I have been watching closely to find out what he is after. He claims to cure aids and more, and he is claiming that we are going to be crossing into the heavenly realm and everything. Can you prove in any way you are Jesus to me? This man didn't know anything about me and Jesus and God would know stuff they would have the power to heal with touch.

But this man cannot, and if you are the real Jesus I'd like to get his followers on the right path. But it's hard with so many fakes. I have seen videos of you but I don't understand any of it. This man speaks the same way using math and more. Can you please show me some "divine proof".

Thank you and God Bless

Answer

Hello K____

In the first century, I did not offer "Divine Proof" about being the Messiah until I was developed into the condition where God could transmit His Love through me. This happened after I went through a process of becoming at-one with God, and, once this condition occurred, then God could perform actions to prove that His Love was real through me.

In this life, I am working from a condition of Sin into the same condition of at-onement with God, and, once I am in that condition, then God may choose to perform similar works, and even greater works through me than the works I did in the first century.

But, the reality is that spiritual development is not about "works", but rather, it is about Love and Truth. So the way to answer this question as to whether AJ Miller is Jesus is quite simple, we must examine it from the position of Love and Truth, over a longer period of time.

Any person can become over-cloaked by a spirit, and then make claims and even perform some "works" that seem to support those claims. Literally hundreds of thousands of people claim to be Jesus. Any person who is connected to a spirit can answer questions about your life, just by asking a spirit with them about your life, and then repeating the answers the spirit gives to you.

Frequently Asked Questions

So a person "knowing" about your life is not proof as to whether that person is Jesus or not. Also, many spirits loan energy to people on earth to do things, so the doing of things is not proof as to a person being Jesus.

The true measure of real development is how much the person on earth is dedicated to Love and Truth.

So the real question is:

If anyone claims to be Jesus, how much Love do you feel from them, and how strong a desire do you see in them to stay in a personal state of Truth, with themselves and those around them, at all times, and under pressure?

If you cannot feel whether the person claiming to be Jesus is in a state of Love, or in a state of Truth, then why not wait until you are yourself further developed in Love and Truth, so that you can then answer the question yourself.

So, rather than seeking "Divine Proof", why don't you get to know this person you have asked me about more personally, and see whether he seems to you to be loving and truthful, and then also get to know myself a bit more personally, and see whether I seem to be loving and truthful.

Also, the Jesus of the Bible spoke in such a manner that most people could understand him. He did not speak in riddles or in ways that made others become even more confused. So, any person who is the Jesus of the Bible will also speak plainly, without confusion, will wish to answer all of your questions if he has the opportunity, and will not attempt to bamboozle you with maths or long words. He will be conscious of your own desire to learn, and will meet you at the point of your own knowledge. So, again, make the comparison between the people who claim to be Jesus, and see whether they have that same openness of spirit, and desire to help others. Have these personal interactions, and then examine the results.

In time, the real Jesus will be proven, not because he is asked to perform powerful works (although those will undoubtedly come at a time when God chooses) but rather, by the LOVE that he consistently displays even when he is under attack. In addition, he will be Truthful, he will honour the Free Will of others, he will not attempt to control or manipulate others, and he will demonstrate through his own actions his love of people and his love of God and God's Laws.

Let your own heart be your guide as to the answer, rather than relying on the claim.

Your brother
AJ Miller
The "real" Jesus

PS: Perhaps you should send a similar email questioning the other men who claim to be Jesus that you know of, and see what answers you receive from them. That may also help you to determine the difference of their character. Let yourself honestly examine the character of the people who are making the claim, and then, from that character, let yourself see who seems to be more loving and truthful in their dealings.