Question

I have a question, AJ. I went somewhere once in my head, I think, while I was taking a salt/crystal bath in 2008. I was in the bathroom tub taking a bath in the dark with the lights off and in my minds eye I saw a place which looked like the inside of a big fancy performance hall. The walls were golden coloured with very little detail. Inside the hall was hundreds of thousands of spheres of light. I couldn't count them all there was so many. They were covering the floors and some of the walls and the ceiling. They were everywhere but next to the walls, floor, and ceiling. My view point was in the centre of this room. The spheres of light were of different shades of white of different intensities and sizes. I then, for some reason, looked closer at one of the spheres and noticed a living person inside. It was just some man doing his thing. I understood that I could know anything I wanted to know about that person just by the sheer desire of wanting to know whatever specific info I wanted to know. I didn't even have to ask. I knew it before I even asked the question. At that point the access to that place faded. I'm left with this experience of all knowingness and the awe of that realm. So I'm curious about this place and why I saw that. AJ, can you tell me what this place is and why someone might pop in for a 15 second visit and leave? I've meditated hundreds of times since then and never once seen that place or anything like it ever again. So I am curious. Do you know? Thank you.

Answer

Hello T____,

Your spirit guide gave you a set of images that she wanted you to understand.

1. That all so-called "orbs" (or spheres of light that can be seen in both the spirit and physical realms) are actually persons who now live in the spirit world.
2. That each person has their own record of their own life within their soul, and any other person can connect to that record to understand what has happened to the person, and how the person has experienced their own life. Therefore all information about a person is available to us, but this is only the case if we are in the condition of love to receive that information.
3. That you, and every other person on earth, are able to develop this condition (the condition of love where it becomes possible to know everything about a person by just having the desire to know) while you remain on the earth. This is dependent on growing into a permanent condition of love that allows this information to flow to you.

Frequently Asked Questions

4. With meditation experiences where spirits give us information, the spirits will not usually give us more information until we completely understand the previous information we have been given. My suggestion to you is to ask your guide about these things, and develop a more closer connection with your guide. At the moment, you presume certain things without asking, and this limits your guide from giving you more information, since to answer, you will then think that some presumptions are correct, when they are not. Your guide is very concerned that you only hear the Truth from her, and so she is patiently waiting for you to become more open to having a dialog with her, instead of looking for metaphysical experiences to answer questions.

5. Your guide wishes to have more direct contact with you, but does not wish to help you believe things that are not true, or to make assumptions about what is truth and what is not. Think of it as just developing a relationship with another person, but this is just a person you cannot see.

6. Your guide is waiting for you to have a stronger desire for a connection with God. If you desire this connection above all things, you guide will be able to give you much more information.

There is more I can say, but I do not have the time with all I have going on.

I am pleased to meet you.

Cheers for now
